

Abstract

Assessing social exclusion resulted from schizophrenia in patients admitted to Dr phatemi1393 hospital

Introduction:

Schizophrenia is a mental disorder in which reality is defined as the inability to understand speech. Previously referred to as schizophrenia, and Jen was frustrating enough that these definitions imply a lack of understanding of the schizophrenia. So by doing a qualitative study, social exclusion caused by the labeling of developing the illness in the families of schizophrenic patients were examined. To be able to present it to the relevant step towards improving the quality of life and reduce social inequality caused by the disease in this family story.

Materials and Methods:

The study is qualitative content analysis, in-depth interviews to collect information from or were unstructured. Of 20 people were interviewed family members of schizophrenia patients, data from the interviews were analyzed using qualitative content analysis. And conceptual coding, the main themes of the interviews were classified as Level 3 codes.

Results:

In this study, the researcher concluded by speaking of families, 15 person of families schizophrenic patients under the concept of social exclusion. Were merged together into 7 main categories of discrimination and ridicule, shame, need support, withdrawn, lack of awareness, life stress and hell were classified.

Conclusions:

The results of the interviews, the families of hospitalized patients with chronic schizophrenia Fatemi, discrimination and ridicule, need support, shame, need support, withdrawn, lack of awareness, stress the hell up life is suffering.

Key words: schizophrenia, family, social exclusion